

JUROMENHA VILLAGE

120 N 38° 44' 256" W 7° 14' 256" (dock)

Juromenha dates back to the period of Roman domination. However, it was during the Muslim occupation that Juromenha became a fortified settlement, especially from the 11th century onwards. We can still see part of the original fortress from that period, set in thick mud walls strengthened by square turrets.

After a few centuries at a standstill, the role of Juromenha as a stronghold again became evident during the Restoration Wars with the construction of an important polygonal star fort, typical of Vauban's French engineering work.
