

THE TOWN OF MOURÃO

 2111  N 38° 22' 223" W 7° 21' 379" (dock)

The name of the medieval town of Mourão reflects its Muslim past: Mauram or Morón are phonetic adaptations of the Late Latin "maurorum", which means "of the Moors". Although in the old Castilian "morón" also means "horse", this does not contradict the historical significance of this "land of Moors" conquered by the sword by Christian knights.

The castle and its keep stand out among the town's buildings. The keep was concluded during the reign of King Afonso IV.

Mourão is the keeper of Portugal's independence. We can still find traces of the ancient battle in the boundaries of the Portuguese territory. It can be said that its historical pride together with the calmness of the white houses that radiates from the Praça da República is one of the marks of this borderland.
